My final website is going to be about me, where I am the client. I'm going to attempt to create sort of resume/ portfolio website. The home page is going to be a a few photos of me and things i've done, the second is going to be a few examples of projects I have done relevant to my field, the third page is going to be other things I have done, and the fourth is going to be a written about page with my physical resume.
